Appalachian Trail Walkway Foundation

Cumberland County, PA

Project:

550 Foot Appalachian Trail Walkway through a flood prone area in Cumberland County PA.

Engineering Design:

Karen Lutz of the Appalachian Trail Conservancy utilized a walkway design from the Pochuck Quagmire Boardwalk Project in Northwestern New Jersey.

Project Details:

The Appalachian Trail in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania runs in part along the Conodoguinet Creek.

This area is prone to spring flooding. Bob Sickley was the project manager for the Appalachian Trail Conservancy on the walkway, and oversaw the installation of approximately 150 SS 5 Helical Piers to depths of 10 to 20 feet. The walkway was completed in three (3) weeks in the fall of 2005.
